1860: Fake or Real?

Body: Real Slavery Expansion's "Cast Iron Man"

John Calhoun: slavery benefits slaves as a positive and natural good

1825 -1832 Vice President

1845 Texas Annexation

...to expand slavery

Now we meet these men of both parties at once, and deny that slavery is sinful or inexpedient. We deny that it is wrong in the abstract. We assert that it is the natural condition of man; that there ever has been, and there ever will be slavery; and we not only claim for ourselves the right to determine for ourselves the relations between master and slave, but we insist that the slavery of the Southern States is the best regulation of slavery, whether we take into consideration the interests of the master or of the slave, that has ever been devised. But it is not enough to

A landscape photograph of 1850s Kansas. In the foreground, a rustic stone wall made of stacked, light-colored rocks runs across the frame. To the left of the wall, a single wooden post stands upright. The middle ground is dominated by rolling green hills and fields, with a few scattered trees and a small herd of cattle visible in the distance. The sky is a clear, deep blue, with a single bright moon visible in the upper right quadrant. The overall scene is peaceful and evokes a sense of rural life in the mid-19th century.

“We are threatened with being made the unwilling receptacle of the filth, scum and offscourings of the East ... to preach abolition and dig underground Railroads.”

March 1855 Atchison leads thousands of Missouri men into Kansas to illegally cast votes in Kansas and force bogus puppet government. Wants to hang abolitionists.

“There are eleven hundred coming over from Platte County to vote, and if that ain’t enough we can send five thousand—enough to kill every God-damned abolitionist in the territory!”

NEW HAVEN, Monday, March 31, 1856.

REV. H. W. BEECHER—Dear Sir: Your note of the 29th inst. is just received, together with the box of Bibles, and the amount promised for 'Weapons of Defence,' all for the use of our Kansas colony. The responsibilities connected with our enterprise, together with numerous cares and anxieties of a more private nature, press so heavily upon me, that I am utterly unfit to respond to your letter in a manner at all suited to my own feelings or the circumstances of the case. I can only say that we gratefully accept the Bibles as the only sure foundation on which to erect free institutions, and the sole basis of a pure Christianity, and of course well suited to meet the earliest wants of our Prairie Home. We ask no better 'charter' for our liberties, than can be found upon its pages—no 'constitution' as the basis of our social fabric that does not derive its character and vitality from the pure and holy principles of the Bible. Upon this rock we design to rear our infant colony, and by so doing, feel the strongest confidence that He whose power controls, will smile upon us, until in the vast wilderness there shall be another point of communication between earth and heaven—the voice of prayer and songs of praise ascending to the throne of God; and in return, countless blessings descending upon

C. SHARPS'
PATENT BREECH-LOADING AND SELF-PRIMING

Rifle, Carbine, Shot Gun, and Pistol,

MANUFACTURED AND SOLD BY SHARPS' RIFLE MANUFACTURING COMPANY, AT HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT.

SHARPS' Arms combine simplicity of construction, rapidity of firing, and extraordinary range, with perfect accuracy and unequalled safety. The barrel and moving parts are of cast steel, and so wrought and finished as to insure their excellence and durability. The Arm will admit but one charge at a time, and obviates the objection to all magazine or cylinder guns. The priming magazine is charged with 50 air and water proof pellets ready for use, but the arm is only primed when the hammer is at full cock.

To LOAD—The breech is opened by moving the lever or guard forward, the cartridge is inserted, and pressed forward evenly with the thumb, which forces the ball in its seat; move the lever to its position, which closes the breech, and cuts off the rear end of the cartridge, exposing the powder in the line of fire communication; or insert the ball at the breech, force it to its seat with a rod and charge with loose powder.

As no patch is used, the ball should be well greased with tallow, which lubricates through the barrel and prevents loading. For warm climates, loaded by mixing one-teeth by heavy tallow.

To PRIME—Cock the arm, place the thumb of the left hand on the screw head beneath the cup of the hammer and press the slide backward to a stop.

Insert the tube containing priming, in the magazine until the wooden follower lies in the side groove; holding the follower firmly in that position with the left thumb, at the same time withdraw the tube with the right hand and carefully let down the hammer, still holding the follower in the groove until the descending hammer forces it out by exerting the slide forward to position.

When the priming magazine is charged do not touch the magazine cover back so as to admit of the escape of the priming.

If by long continued firing the breech-pin becomes foul, a few drops of water, or even saliva, applied to it, and the lever moved backward and forward two or three times, will cause it to move perfectly free.

The barrel is cleaned by inserting the brush, wet or dry, at the breech, and propelling it through the bore. If any of the cartridge paper remains in the breech after the discharge, insert a cartridge and move it backward and forward once or twice and the paper will be withdrawn.

The barrel has an adjusting banding at the breech which is fitted to the breech-pin or slide, so close as to prevent any escape.

Oil the Arms and all their parts with the best sperm oil.

JOHN C. PALMER, President. E. THOS. LOBBELL, Secretary.

Hunting buffalo with "Beecher's Bibles"

In 1848, a man named Christian Sharps took out a patent on a rifle.

It proved to be a remarkable weapon.

Not only was it the first successful breechloader, but it set records for long-range, accurate shooting which have hardly been surpassed to this day.

A factory was set up in Hartford, Connecticut, and the gun found a ready market. Not only military men and sportsmen but others quickly recognized the superiority of the new Sharps Rifle.

In Kansas the rifles were called "Beecher's Bibles." Henry Ward Beecher had taken a leading part in the verbal fight to bring Kansas into the Union as a free state and Eastern Abolitionists, very practically, had sent Sharps carbines to Kansas militants in cases marked "Bibles."

Throughout the west, the buffalo hunters took to the new breechloader like ducks to water. And in the hands of the Texas Rangers, the Sharps furnished nearly a hard-fighting bad man who thought he was safely out of range.

The rifle was a distinct success, and Christian Sharps made a lot of money out of his invention. He was, at one point in his life, a comparatively rich man. Yet at his death, in 1874, he left a wife and two children—and a total estate of $341.23.

Like so many people, he found that making money and winning financial security are two entirely different things.

There is an element of irony in Sharps's story. For at the same time and in the same city where the Sharps Rifle was being made, the greatest device ever known for enabling a man to win financial security was being rapidly developed. Hartford was busy becoming the "Insurance City" of America.

It's a pity that Christian Sharps, who had many good ideas which helped him make money, couldn't have had just one more good idea—which would have helped him keep some of it.

It's a pity he never had the idea of taking out some life insurance.

Of course, there's some excuse for Christian Sharps. Life insurance was a pretty new idea then, and a lot of people weren't familiar with it.

Men didn't realize then, as they do now, that insurance is not just the easiest and simplest, but almost the only way for a man to be sure that there will always be money to protect the things he has and the people he loves.

Revolutionary War? Disinformation in Slavery Preservation

“...the American Revolution was largely a war about trade and economic influence—not ideology.”

“...the system’s participants constructed a compelling drama featuring virtuous men who suddenly found themselves threatened by ruthless Indians and defiant slaves acting on behalf of the king. Parkinson argues that patriot leaders used racial prejudices to persuade Americans to declare independence. Between the Revolutionary War’s start at Lexington and the Declaration, they broadcast any news they could find about Native Americans, enslaved Blacks, and Hessian mercenaries working with their British enemies. American independence thus owed less to the love of liberty than to the exploitation of colonial fears about race.”

Texas? Disinformation in Occupation and Annexation

“[American settlers bringing slaves] came illegally. By the end of the 1820s [when Mexico abolished slavery], Anglo American immigrants outnumbered the Mexican population.

When the government in Mexico City tried to remove them from Texas and regain control of the region, violence broke out between immigrants and those loyal to Mexico.

California? Disinformation in Invasion and Annexation

President Polk intentionally worked to aggravate Mexico and provoke a war.

“We have not one particle of right to be here. It looks as if the government sent a small force on purpose to bring on a war, so as to have a pretext for taking California and as much of this country as it chooses.”

– Colonel Hitchcock, Mexico 1846

Historian Amy Greenberg has shown how racist attitudes that saw Mexicans as racial inferiors and anti-Catholic bigotry enabled American soldiers and leaders to justify extreme violence and what we would now regard as war crimes against Mexican forces and civilians.

His only enemy—
PREPAREDNESS!
The last two years have shown that all the preachments of human brotherhood, all the boasted morality of mankind, vanish when the hatred and passion of nations are aroused.
Only the strong are safe. As we love peace, our homes, our country, so must we be strong to defend them.
The Vitagraph Blue Ribbon Masterpiece—
“THE BATTLE CRY OF PEACE”
continues, after a year's unprecedented success, to play to capacity houses everywhere.
The truth it expounds is unanswerable. The terrific portrayal of the crime of weakness, the blindness of those who will not see, has aroused the millions, and they demand again and again, that the picture be shown.
Almost 5,000 exhibitors have found in the biggest money-maker ever released. The coming Presidential campaign, built around the very question of Preparedness, will mean an ever increasing opportunity for exhibitors to earn a big profit from “The Battle Cry of Peace.”

THE AWAKENING

Look forward, women, always; shilly-shally cast away
The memory of here and struggle and bitterness;
Bunch may endure for a night, but freedom comes with the day,
And the free must remember nothing less.

Forget the strike; remember those who drove—
The first deflated women, galter and few,
Who grew us hope, as a mother gives us love,
Forget them not, and this remember, too:

Flow at the labor call to come forth and unite,
Women untaught, uneducated, slow and apart,
Rank upon rank came forth in unbroken might,
Each one answering the call of her own wise heart

They came from tid and west, from before and east,
Those who knew only life, and learned women of fame,
Girls and the mothers of girls, and the mothers of those,
No one knew whence or how, but they came, they came,

The faces of some were stern, and some were gay,
And some were pale with the terror of cruel dangers,
But their hearts knew this: that hereafter comes what may,
Women to women would never again be strangers.
